Art Unit: 1731

1. Applicant's election with traverse of species b) in the reply filed on 12/2/03 and 4/9/04 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that there is no reason given as to why the species are seen as patentably distinct. This is not found persuasive because it is clear that a refractory having a pH outside of the 7-9 range claimed in species a could still be included in species b.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 1,2,6 and 8 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on 12/2/03 and 4/9/04.

3. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure:

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

4. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it contains language which can be implied (i.e. "Also disclosed is..."). Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Art Unit: 1731

5. Claims 5 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 5, the phrase "the β -naphthalenesulfonic acid-formaldehyde condensate sodium salt" has no antecedent basis.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 3 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Li et al. (2002/0022567).

Li et al. discloses a castable refractory containing 2-15 wt.% thermal black (i.e. carbon black). Li et al. also disclose that the thermal black may be Thermax Floform N990 (see e.g. paragraph [0043]). Finally, Li et al. discloses that the refractory contains less than 13 % porosity after drying (e.g. Table II).

A data sheet for Thermax Floform N990 is cited of interest and it discloses that the surface area of this material is 7-12 m²/g.

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

9. Claims 3,4,5,7,9,10,11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Li et al. (2002/0022567) in view of JP 10-236883 (see PTOL-1449 of 11/27/01).

Li et al. discloses a castable refractory containing 2-15 wt.% thermal black (i.e. carbon black). Li et al. also disclose that the thermal black may be Thermax Floform N990 (see e.g. paragraph [0043]). Finally, Li et al. discloses that the refractory contains less than 13 % porosity after drying (e.g. Table II).

A data sheet for Thermax Floform N990 is cited of interest and it discloses that the surface area of this material is 7-12 m²/g.

Li et al. does not disclose the claimed dispersant. Li et al. does, however, disclose the use of known dispersants (e.g. [0025].)

JP 10-236883 discloses the claimed dispersant and teaches its use with carbon containing refractories. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to use this type of dispersant in the process of Li et al. in view of the teachings therein.

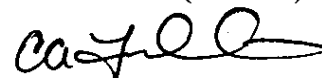

Art Unit: 1731

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The data sheet cited of record is cited to teach material properties of a material cited in the 102 reference.
